

Comparative Management of Care

Featured Course:

- ➔ Name of Course: Comparative Management of Care
- ➔ Course Number: HS-215A
- ➔ Link to Syllabus: <https://globalsemesters.com/wp-content/uploads/HS-215A.pdf>

Key Course Objectives:

This course will compare and contrast the organizational and financial structure of the health care systems in Cyprus, the European Union and non-European Union countries. The course will also examine the relationships between various health professionals and their role within the health care system.

Key Subjects Covered:

The evolution of health care delivery, the changing role of health professionals in society, the legal aspects of health care, the approaches to the measurement of health, the link between research and theory and care delivery, and the attributes of culture and their impact on care delivery.

Benefit to Students:

Students will gain an understanding of the key influences on the development of contemporary health organizations across different cultures.

Students in the Health Sciences will be able to build cross-cultural care competencies skills and awareness.

Why the University of Nicosia (UNIC)

UNIC has an established partnership for International Medical Education with St. George's University of London, the only specialist medical and health care higher education institution in the United Kingdom.

The University of Nicosia's Medical School has established global partnerships with renowned clinical hospitals in Chicago, Baltimore, Tel Aviv and Barnsley.

The University of Nicosia's Medical School and its School of Life and Health Sciences provide students with a global approach to medicine.

Students will attend Virtual Site Visits as well as have interactions with international health care professionals.